The Ins and Outs of Handling offers a concentrated tour of the handling world. Voices of handlers from Europe and the USA, some famous, some not, will share with you how they came into handling, what they found there and what advice they would give you. A chapter explores basic concepts of how to rear a showdog and techniques to start handling that dog yourself. This is an entertaining text full of anecdotes and nuggets of wisdom, inspiring handlers both green and seasoned to be their best.

The author was born in the United States, but lives and works in Italy. She breeds and shows Irish Terriers under the kennel name «Tuscan Red» out of her home in Tuscany. She writes a regular column «The Literary Dog» for «Best in Show» magazine and contributes articles on a variety of subjects to that and other publications. She is a qualified training instructor.
